

Message from the Provost

During the 2021-2022 academic year, we celebrated the arrival of Eduardo M. Peñalver as Seattle University's 22nd president. Under President Peñalver's leadership, the university updated its strategic plan and launched Reigniting Our Strategic Directions 2022-2027.

One important initiative in the updated plan is to enhance faculty scholarship, research, and the development of creative works as a key element in the professional development of our faculty. The Office of Sponsored Projects has already built momentum in this area over this year as demonstrated in the 66 awards received - more than double the previous year - and 88 competitive proposals submitted resulting in an astounding 70% success rate, attesting to the quality and dedication of our faculty and staff.

I am grateful to the Office of Sponsored Projects Advisory Council for advancing the culture of research and scholarship at Seattle University, faculty and staff for addressing the many challenges of our society through their active scholarship and providing enriching educational experiences for our students, and the Office of Sponsored Projects for their support in enabling the growth in sponsored projects activity as highlighted in this year's annual report.

Sincerely,

Dr. Shane Martin

Message from the Director

Over the past year, sponsored projects activity has grown tremendously - aside from the big wins highlighted in the Provost's message, we're also celebrating smaller wins and experiencing growth in all areas - from FY21 to FY22 we saw a 28% increase in first-time proposers, a 43% increase in interdisciplinary proposals, and a 47% increase in proposers utilizing OSP's enhanced proposal services; we experienced a 25% increase in active awards during the year, a 36% increase in award management consultations, and for every 1 project that ended, 2.24 new projects received funding!

Together, we have persevered through a pandemic and the ongoing disruptions to business and life as usual. Thank you for sticking it out with us. It is a pleasure to work alongside you as you develop your research, establish partnerships, engage with our community, share your creativity, and prepare our students for life beyond SU!

I am inspired by your perseverance and delighted to see scholarship represented in Goal Two of the Reignited Strategic Directions, and I look forward to building on this year's success to further this initiative.

In partnership,

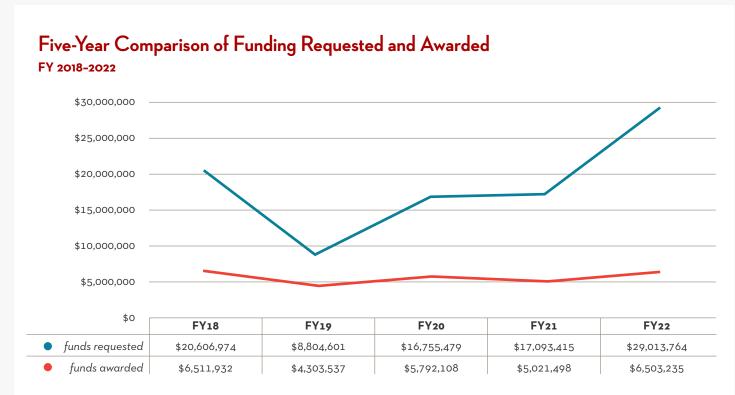

Jenna Isakson

2021-2022 FUNDING AT A GLANCE

persistence in doing something despite difficulty or delay in achieving success

Despite competing demands, an ongoing pandemic, and the competitive environment of external funding, our faculty and staff persevered in submitting proposals and receiving grants in FY22. Not only did the quantity of proposals and grants increase, but the quality improved as reflected in an impressive 70% success rate (up from 56% in FY21).

How? Seattle University faculty and staff persevere. They take advantage of our individualized consultations to share their scholarly goals, collaborate with us to develop roadmaps for positioning themselves for success and receive curated lists of potential funding sources. They carve out time for identifying opportunities, refining grantspersonship skills, and writing (or rewriting) grant applications. And when they aren't successful, they persist in the face of adversity and recognize the value of feedback to refine and resubmit their proposal.

Grant-seeking takes

PERSEVERANCE

Faculty and staff who work with OSP early in the grant-seeking process receive additional value-added services including support with conceptualizing project or program aims, helpful proposal checklists and templates, budget development support and enhanced proposal review. The OSP offers a variety of resources to support faculty and staff on their grant-seeking journey:

OSP STAFF

available to provide expertise and guide faculty and staff throughout the lifecycle of the funding process, including planning consultations and providing support in identifying and pursuing specific grant opportunities, proposal review and enhanced editing support and award management

LEARNING SESSIONS

online learning opportunities to improve SU faculty and staff grantspersonship skills and otherwise position for grant-seeking success

LIGHTNING TALKS

online opportunities to learn more about other faculty scholarship and make interdisciplinary connections

OSP WEBSITE AND QUARTERLY 'OSP OBSERVER' NEWSLETTER

full of information on processes, templates, news and other OSP support

GRANTFORWARD

OSP sponsored subscription to the database to assist faculty and staff as they identify external funding opportunities

SUCCESS

in my

If you do not get funded, don't fret. If possible, learn what you can from the experiences, and keep going and look elsewhere!

OSP staff is operating at a very high level. Very professional, on the ball; they take initiative and are very responsive. Very impressed!

Remember that writing a proposal is also an opportunity to get clearer about what it is you want to study and how, regardless of whether you get funded or not. So even if you don't get funded, you will have moved forward in your work!

I am most pleased with the ability for direct and personalized work with OSP staff to find opportunities and track the progress. The personalized nature is an asset for us!

The assistance with finding, drafting, revising and editing the proposal was invaluable.

The staff members were also kind and supportive, which made a huge difference for me.

Hands down it is the SKILL/COMPETENCY and AGILITY/FLEXIBILITY of the OSP crew that makes working with them a pleasure, a relief, and essential to the grants I have obtained.

Summer Faculty Fellowships

The Office of Sponsored Projects is proud to support the Summer Faculty Fellowship Program. This program provides financial support for tenure-track or tenured faculty and full-time librarians who are involved in an active program of scholarship, including the scholarship of discovery, integration, application, and teaching.

The program's goal is to support faculty efforts to build on previous scholarly or creative endeavors (e.g., for the writing of grant proposals) or to move projects in a new direction (providing the basis for future external support or publications). Recipients are selected each fall by a faculty committee

Applications for the 2023 Summer Faculty Fellowship program are due November 1.

For more information visit the OSP website.
