Project Proposal

(Minimum 11-point font, maximum 3 pages).

1. Intended objective(s) of the project.
2. The methodology you will employ.
3. Discuss the significance of your project both within your discipline and in relation to the larger concerns and advancement of environmental justice or sustainability.
4. Discuss how your project uses appropriate or novel collaboration, particularly across disciplines.
5. Discuss how your project will contribute to your educational and professional goals and to the university's "Laudato Si'" commitment to integral ecology
6. Discuss the viability of your project by including the project timeline and an estimate of required resources.
7. Describe the project's intended results (such as a tangible scholarly product, an academic paper, a conference presentation, an artistic exhibit or presentation, or other pre-professional product,...) and the potential for impact/continuity of the project beyond the one-year CEJS fellowship (e.g. possible contribution to a larger grant,...)?
8. Statement of support and commitment from faculty mentor (submitted separately, by email) that indicates the mentor:
 - a. Has read the project proposal and endorses the proposed work; and
 - b. Can provide supervision and mentorship throughout the duration of the project, as outlined in the "requirements for faculty mentors" in the "Request for Proposals."
